SIX RECENT AMERICAN NOVELS.

A HAZARD OF NEW FORTUNES. A Novel. By WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS. Popular Edition, pp. iv., 171. Illustrated. 8vo, Paper, 75 cents. [Library Edition, 2 vols., 12mo, Cloth, in press.]

In this story Mr. Howells employs the heroic element as he has never done before. . . . The author deals here with the play of strong emotions and great passions. A consciousness of the weight and seriousness of the social problems whose surface indications lend so much picturesqueness to this novel may be said to underlie it. The sweeping flow of the life currents of the great city [New York] seems to have energized the author's style and given to his matter a pregnancy and force which all his readers ought to welcome with delight. . . . Never certainly has Mr. Howells written more brilliantly, more clearly, more firmly, or more attractively than in this instance.—N. Y. Tribune.

JUPITER LIGHTS. A Novel. By CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON. pp. 349. 16mo, Cloth, $1 25.

Few novels have so successfully portrayed Northern and Southern women, whose differences are irreconcilable, yet whose interests are in common. There is a wonderful drawing of scenery in the book. The very spirit of the sandy Southern shore and the aromatic woods of the North may be breathed through sympathetic pages.—Boston Journal.

Miss Woolson's latest work is her best. "Jupiter Lights" is one of the strongest works which the field of American fiction has produced in many years.—Newark Advertiser.

CHITA. A Memory of Last Island. By LAFCADIO HEARN. pp. vi., 204. Post 8vo, Cloth, $1 00.

Mr. Hearn's best performance thus far. . . . His style is tropical, full of glow and swift movement and vivid impressions.—N. Y. Tribune.

By right of this single but profoundly remarkable book Mr. Hearn may lay good claim to the title of the American Victor Hugo. . . . So living a book has scarcely been given to our generation.—Boston Transcript.

To such as are unfamiliar with Mr. Hearn's writings "Chita" will be a revelation of how near language can approach the realistic power of actual painting.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

A LITTLE JOURNEY IN THE WORLD. A Novel. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER. pp. iv., 396. Post 8vo, Half Leather, Uncut Edges and Gilt Tops, $1 50.

Full of that peculiar interest which always attaches to scenes so natural that they must be drawn from real life or else created by the magic skill of one whose imagination has the power to endow its visions with immortal vitality. The characters speak for themselves; the tone is cheering and healthful, and the undercurrent of thought is highly instructive.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

There are passages in this work which are a nearer approach to Thackeray than we have had from any American author.—Boston Post.

BETWEEN THE LINES. A Story of the War. By Captain CHARLES KING, U. S. A., Author of "A War-Time Wooing," &c. Illustrated by GILBERT GAUL. pp. iv., 312. Post 8vo, Cloth, Extra, $1 25.

A more spirited war novel than "Between the Lines" it would be difficult to name. The war of the Rebellion is the period selected for illustration, and thrilling adventures, embodying the prominent incidents of military life, are constantly and effectively introduced. In his peculiar field Captain King is a credit to American literature.—N. Y. Sun.

In all of Captain King's stories the author holds to lofty ideals of manhood and womanhood, and inculcates the lessons of honor, generosity, courage, and self-control.—Literary World, Boston.

A WAR-TIME WOOING. A Story. By Captain CHARLES KING. Illustrated by R. F. ZOGBAUM. pp. iv., 196. Post 8vo, Cloth, Extra, $1 00.

All Captain King's war tales are good, and the last, "A War-Time Wooing," is the most skilfully written of them all. . . The author's war-time scenes are drawn with accuracy, and minuteness of detail which will delight soldiers.—N. Y. Herald.

Captain King is a delightful story-teller, and this combination of love and war will prove one of the most attractive books of the season.—Washington Post.

A capital military story. . . . All Captain King's stories are full of spirit, and with the true ring about them.—N. Y. Times.
